

Carter Martin
January 16, 2014
Adjunct Faculty, Film & Video Department
Columbia College

To Whom it may concern:

I enthusiastically recommend Taylor Brown. He was my student for Moving Image Production II at Columbia College, Chicago for Fall 2013. He was among my brightest and hardest working students I've had the pleasure of teaching.

Taylor's criticisms were thoughtful, his writing intelligent. Taylor was a natural leader as he directed both a documentary as well as a narrative film. His documentary was chosen by the class to represent Columbia College's Take 1 Film Festival. His final narrative film, an homage to Clint Eastwood, was a close second. Taylor was punctual, never missed a class, and was well liked by his classmates.

Taylor leans towards perfectionism, has a willingness to learn and has a creative edge that stands out among his peers. We will see some wonderful results from this young man quite soon.

Thank you for your consideration,

Carter Martin